The Qatar National Vision (QNV)
logo is based on a modular design. The central element of the logo takes the form of an eye, reflecting vision. The cultural pattern of its iris reflects traditional Qatari culture. This central element has a subtle relationship and congruence with the map of Qatar in the GSDP logo. The QNV logo is a modernized typographic Qatar, much like how the map is used in the GSDP logo. GSDP refers to General Secretariat for Development Planning in Qatar.

The modular design looks structured, yet at the same time its dynamic dimensions have been created through the use of a diagonal line. The diagonal is important because the text reads upwards, which looks towards the future. The QNV seeks to achieve development progress yet at the same time it aims to preserve national culture.

Vision and a Strategy

Charting economic and social progress in modern societies depends on a clear vision and a strategy about how to get there. Wise political leaders know the direction in which they would like their societies to develop, balancing the interests of present and future generations. Qatar National Vision 2030 builds a bridge between the present and the future. It envisages a vibrant and prosperous country in which there is economic and social justice for all, and in which nature and man are in harmony. We need to galvanize our collective energies and direct them toward these aspirations. The welfare of our children, and of our children yet to be born, demands that we use our resource-wealth wisely. Qatar must continue to invest in its people so that all can participate fully in economic, social and political life.

Qatar must invest too in world class infrastructure to create a dynamic and more diversified economy in which the private sector plays a prominent role. Qatar's National Vision is authentic. It has emerged from intensive consultation across Qatari society. It is based on the guiding principles of Qatar's Permanent Constitution. It reflects the aspirations of the Qatari people and the resolve of their political leadership. Qatar's National Vision belongs to the government, the private sector, civil society and to all Qatari citizens

Qatar Vision 2030

Comprehensive Prosperity

The State of Qatar is enjoying a period of unparalleled prosperity, with exceptional economic progress being evident in the increasing standard of living of its people. Major advances in economic, human and social developments continue to occur. Qatar has also progressed politically. Qatar's Permanent Constitution was ratified in 2004 and came into effect in June 2005. The Constitution defines the roles of the three state powers and the rights and duties of Qatari citizens. Despite rapid economic and social gains, as well as political change, Qatar has maintained its cultural and traditional values as an Arab and Islamic nation that considers the family to be the main pillar of society. Under the wise leadership of HH the Emir, Sheikh Hamad bin Khalifa Al-Thani, the country continues to implement important initiatives that will propel Qatar to fully developed nationhood, and strengthen its role in the international community.

“Comprehensive development is our main goal in striving for the progress and prosperity of our people.” Hamad bin Khalifa Al-Thani

The National Vision defines broad future trends and reflects the aspirations, objectives and culture of the Qatari people. By shedding light on the future, the Vision illuminates the fundamental choices that are available to Qatari society. Simultaneously, it inspires Qatari people to develop a set of common goals related to their future. Qatar's National Vision defines the long-term outcomes for the country as a whole rather than the processes for reaching these outcomes.

Qatar Vision 2030

Modernization and Preservation of Traditions

Preservation of cultural traditions is a major challenge that confronts many societies in a rapidly globalizing and increasingly interconnected world. Qatar's very rapid economic and population growth have created intense strains between the old and new in almost every aspect of life. Modern work patterns and pressures of competitiveness sometimes clash with traditional relationships based on trust and personal ties, and create strains for family life. Moreover, the greater freedom and wider choices that accompany economic and social progress pose a challenge to deep-rooted social values highly cherished by society.

The Needs of this Generation and the Needs of Future Generations.

Qatar will meet the needs of this generation without compromising the needs of future generations. Sustainable development is a process that seeks to meet the needs of the present generation without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their needs.

This is often called inter generational justice. The rights of future generations would be threatened if the depletion of non-renewable resources were not compensated by the creation of new sources of renewable wealth. Qatar's National Vision will choose the development path that carefully balances the interests of the current generation with the interests of future generations.

Managed Growth and Uncontrolled Expansion

Qatar wants to expand quickly, but there are limitations. Qatar is currently experiencing great expansion in its economic activities. However, this growth could deplete its resources, overstrain its economy and derail it from its targeted objectives. Stress from economic overheating and imbalances can manifest themselves due to rapidly rising prices which, if persists, will lead to financial vulnerabilities; deterioration in the quality of public services; low and stagnant labor productivity; deterioration in project quality and completion; environmental damage; and widening social cleavages and tensions. For these reasons Qatar must develop at a consistent pace with realistic expectations of sustainable improvements in livelihood and quality of life. It must target growth rates that are compatible with its capacity for real economic expansion.

Qatar Vision 2030

Economic Growth, Social Development and Environmental Management

Economic development and protection of the environment are two demands neither of which should be sacrificed for the sake of the other. Development patterns can, and often do, have negative effects on the natural environment. Environmental degradation can be reduced through investment in advanced technologies designed to minimize the damage caused by economic projects. It can also be reduced by avoiding rapid and unplanned growth. Even with Qatar's best efforts, it is impossible to entirely avoid harming the environment, given a development pattern that depends in its early stages on oil, gas, petrochemicals and heavy industries. Qatar has already committed to enforcing international standards for environmental protection when designing and implementing its industrial projects.

The country must also commit to making its future path of development compatible with the requirements of protecting and conserving the environment. Wherever there is an environmental cost to be paid for economic progress, it must be compensated with investments in technologies that help to improve the environment. Qatar is a part of the Gulf Region, which forms one ecological system that is affected by the practices and activities of every country in the region. It will be necessary to engage and to encourage all of the Gulf States to protect and conserve the environment. The next step in Qatar's National Vision will be to resolve these five critical challenges.

The First Pillar Human Development

Qatar aims to build a modern world-class educational system that provides students with a first-rate education, comparable to that offered anywhere in the world. The system will provide citizens with excellent training and opportunities to develop to their full potential, preparing them for success in a changing world with increasingly complex technical requirements. The system will also encourage analytical and critical thinking, as well as creativity and innovation. It will promote social cohesion and respect for Qatari society's values and heritage, and will advocate for constructive interaction with other nations.

Education is one of the basic pillars of social progress. The state shall ensure, foster and endeavor to spread it." Permanent Constitution

In order to further support human development, Qatar will aspire to be an active center in the fields of scientific research and intellectual activity.

To improve the health of Qatar's population, Qatar aspires to develop an integrated system for health care, managed according to world-class standards. This system will meet the needs of existing and future generations and provide for an increasingly healthy and lengthy life for all citizens. All health services will be accessible to the entire population. Qatar will strive to increase the effective labor force and participation of its citizens. However, for the foreseeable future Qatar will not have a sufficient number of citizens to manage the complex systems, infrastructure and other requirements of a rapidly growing, diversifying and technologically sophisticated economy. In order to realize Qatar's future ambitions, it will be necessary to make up for the shortages of local labor with expatriate workers. Attracting and retaining the right mix of skills will require appropriate incentives, as well as institutional arrangements for ensuring the rights and safety of expatriate labor.

The Need Environmental Protection

The state of Qatar protects the nature granted by God. A responsible development is expected to balance economic, social and environmental stability. It seriously deals with the issues of diminishing water and hydro carbon resources and the effects of pollution and environmental degradation as well as global warming.

An environmental aware population is required to preserve the natural heritage of the state and its neighboring states. A legal system that protects the elements of nature and creates public awareness about environmental protection is inevitable.

Qatar's National Vision provides the foundation for the formulation of a National Strategy. The Strategy will help the nation to realize the Vision. General Secretariat for Development Planning (GSDP) with the guidance of Qatar's Higher Authorities will coordinate the formulation of this National Strategy.
